VOL. LXXVIII, NUMBER 4

EVERETT GALIGER, (center) Grand Avenue, Lake Villa, presents a check for $72.00 which represents his first 12 months installment of his 36 month pledge to Dr. W. C. Petty, (right) Campaign Chairman, while Mrs. Matilda Bartlett, 215 E. Grand Avenue, Lake Villa, looks on. Mrs. Bartlett was the Campaign team representative who contacted Galiger as one of her prospects.

H.S. Will Levy Deficit Tax; New EMH Class

Antioch Community High School, which has been a participating school in the Special Education District of Lake County for some time, will institute a new Special Education class this year—one for the Educable Mentally Handicapped. The Board of Education of the school approved addition of the class to the school's curriculum at the Board meeting Wednesday night, July 17.

Antioch has had a Speech Therapy program for four years. An instructor for the special class is provided by the Special Education District. The special instructor is at the school two days a week, and the class has a waiting list throughout the school year.

The new EMH class will be made up of pupils who have been thoroughly examined for eligibility for the class. They will be capable of learning, but unable to keep up with normal classes. There will be about 12 to 15 to a class. Children from the district who qualified for the program were formerly sent to Mundelein. Instructor for the new course will be Jack Bodin. Pupils attending the class will be integrated into the program of the school outside the classroom, taking part in P. E., cafeteria and school activities.

The Board also discussed the 1963-64 budget, which is on display at the school. The Budget will be under discussion at the August 21 meeting, to which the public is invited, and will be approved at this meeting. The 1963 tax levy will also be passed at the August 21 meeting.

A special deficit levy has been found necessary, Mr. Dittman said, to make up a deficit which has accumulated for ten years in the retirement of the bond issue passed for the 1952 addition to the school.

Retirement of these bonds was planned for 20 years, with a tax levy made each year for the interest and principal due that year. Because approximately 7% of the taxes levied each year are delinquent, and a sum is deducted by the county collector for collection fees, the tax money received by the school each year for purpose of retirement of the bonds is never quite sufficient to pay the principal and interest due.

The deficit has piled up each year, Mr. Dittman said, so that it is now necessary to levy a special tax which will bring in $10,000.00 to make up the deficit. The deficit could not be budgeted for in succeeding years, as it occurred, Mr. Dittman said, as it is illegal to levy the tax for more than the actual amount needed in that year.

In other business, the Board O. K'd funds to print the student handbook for 1963-64. An enrollment of 930 to 950 is expected for the coming school year.

The book rental was increased from $1.50 per subject to $1.75 per subject. For the average student taking four subjects this will increase book rental fees from $6.00 to $7.00. The total fee for books, towel rental, locker fee, etc., will be $15.50.

Salaries of secretaries, cafeteria personnel and custodians were set by the board that evening. Bids on five new bus tires were opened, and the bid of Antioch Firestone accepted.

HFC Office Open Wed.

The new office of the Household Finance Corp. in Antioch opened Wednesday, July 24.

The office of the installment cash loan company is in the Antioch Savings & Loan Plaza. This is the 62nd HFC office to be established in Illinois.

Mr. R. J. Schneider will be in charge of the new office. He has previously worked for Household in La-Crosse and Superior, Wis., and was promoted to this office from Waukegan, where

Wind Storm Creates Havoc In Area

Was it a tornado, or just a big blow?

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to just what hit Antioch at about 5:30 p.m. Friday, July 19. There isn't any doubt that it did a lot of damage, though.

Lake St., South Main, Victoria, Hardin, to mention a few streets that caught the brunt of the storm, were a litter of fallen trees, branches and electric wires when the wind subsided. In rural areas around the village, the same conditions prevailed.

There were few, if any, homes and businesses in the area that had electrical service when the storm passed. Telephone service was interrupted in places, too. Roofs were blown off, or caved in by falling trees.

Public Service crews worked from about 6:30 p.m. Friday till 9 p.m. Saturday to restore electric service, according to Norman Brown, of the Public Service Co. 95% of the damage, he said, was caused by trees or limbs falling on wires. 400 service calls were received by the company, and eight to twelve crews were out working on the lines until service was fully restored.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. reported about 100 subscribers had phone service interrupted. Repair men from the phone company worked till midnight to restore broken lines, then started again at 6 a.m. Saturday. All were lines to individual homes.

Dick Miller, Antioch manager of Ill. Bell, said real havoc was narrowly averted when a tree on South Main toppled onto the toll line. Had the cable snapped, Antioch would have been isolated until the line could be restored. The cable held, and crews went to work immediately to remove the big tree from its precarious position.

Hospital Gets Pledge From Polio Victim

Dr. W. C. Petty, Countryside Hospital Campaign General Chairman, recently received a completed pledge card from Everett Galiger, Grand Avenue, Lake Villa, the first contributor to the "Building Countryside Hospital" Campaign to pledge $6 a month for three years.

Galiger, a Junior Accountant, contracted polio over 45 years ago and knows what a modern, convenient hospital means to a sick person. Regarding his pledge, Galiger said, "I am most happy with the Countryside 3 year pledge system. Without this easy, systematic method of paying, I wouldn't be able to do my share to help our community reach the minimum Campaign goal of $750,000. I can't afford to do my part in one lump sum."

Galiger went on to say, "I know that in order to start the construction of Countryside soon, at least 1/3 of the total minimum goal of $250,000 will have to be collected before we can even dig the hole for the foundation. If I can give more to the Campaign as time goes on, I will."

After receiving the first 12 months installment of Galiger's pledge, Dr. Petty said, "This generous support is indicative of the attitude of all the people of the Community. 'Building Countryside Hospital.' If everyone does their fair share, I know we can reach our goal."

Petty went on to say, "A pledge campaign such as Countryside's, permits the determination of income in regard to the formulation of specific building plans."

he has been for the past year. He is married and looking forward to meeting new friends in the Antioch area.

HFC is an 85-year-old company with 1268 branch offices in 47 states and all ten Canadian provinces.

Maxwell St. Days Next Week-End

Maxwell Street Days have rolled around again!

August 1, 2 and 3—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—will be the big sale days in Antioch this year.

As usual on Maxwell St. Days, merchants will present some of their bargains on sidewalk tables, adding to the general spirit of festivity that marks the days.

The new Chamber of Commerce is making plans for Maxwell St. this year, in addition to other projects they are carrying on. This weekend, the chamber will furnish transportation to take the "Flying Farmers" to Sequoia Harbor for their boat tour of the Chain O' Lakes.

40 Lions + 700 Birds: Fine Feast

If you detect the mouth-watering odor of barbecued chicken Sunday, August 4th, it will be coming from the vicinity of the Antioch Aqua Center. Some 40 members of the Antioch Lions Club will be busily barbecuing over 700 chickens that day starting early in the morning.

The birds will be barbecued over a long open pit, approximately 250 at a time. They will be ready for serving at 11 a.m. The club plans to serve until about 5:30 p.m.

Tables and chairs will be available in the shaded areas around the pool. Even if you don't care much for chicken, it's fascinating to watch the assembly line procedure employed in the barbecuing. About 250 birds are on the open pits at one time, with the cooks busily basting them with butter and turning them. The fowls are placed on wire grills about 16 at a time. When they are browned on one side the cooks, one on each side of the pit, place another grill over the top and turn the whole section over for cooking on the other side.

The serving line is similarly set up in an efficient cafeteria style layout. The August 4th affair will be the third such barbecue the Lions have put on and if it follows past performances should prove to be a fine afternoon of fun and food for young and old.

Budget, New Village Hall & Sewer Line Approved By Board

The Village Board, at its meeting Monday night, July 22, approved the budget for the coming year; approved installation of a new accounting system by the firm of Jedele & Cain; hired the firm of Applied Engineering, Inc., of Mount Prospect, represented by Frank Angelotti, to install new sewer main south of Bishop St. to the village limits on Route 21; again denied the firm of Lind-Jay builders a permit to construct three apartment houses, pending presentation of definite plans; approved the application of Ellis Storey for permission to install eight sewer and water stub-ins on a parcel of land at Anita & North Avenue; granted permission for the same type of installations to Murrill and Alice Cunningham, and to Murrill Cunningham and Ellis Storey; approved the budget for the present fiscal year; approved a motion to install gas service in the village buildings; and approved a motion to advertise for bids on the new proposed village hall.

NEW ACCOUNTING SYSTEM

Norman Jedele and David Cain advised the installation of the new "peg-board" system of bookkeeping for the village. Jedele said he believed the village would find use of an IBM machine inefficient and expensive. He could not give a definite estimate of the cost of installing the new system of accounting, but said it wouldn't cost over $1,000.00. The board approved installation of the "peg-board" system.

HIRE ANGELOTTI FOR SEWER WORK

Frank Angelotti, of Applied Engineers, presented plans for the new sewer line to be installed in the south portion of the village. The line will run south on Bishop St., through high school property near the railroad, cross Route 173 near the railroad tracks, extend west along the south side of 173 to the intersection of Routes 21 and 173, across the intersection to the west side of Route 21, and south to the village limits.

The sewer line will be 16 feet deep at the intersection. Estimated cost of the new line is $35,000.00, according to Mr. Angelotti. The village board accepted the plans and voted to hire Applied Engineering to install the sewers. The board instructed Mr. Angelotti to try to present finished plans and state permits at the August 6th board meeting, so that bids for the new sewer work could be accepted and work begin. Angelotti estimated that the sewer line would be completed by Christmas. No resident engineer will be necessary, said Angelotti. He prefers that the village have a man from the Public Works department watch the job.

LIND-JAY BUILDERS REFUSED PERMIT

Lind-Jay builders again asked permission to build three apartment houses on Route 21. The request was refused, pending presentation of detailed plans of the proposed buildings and grounds. No provision was made in the plans presented for installation of sidewalks (continued on page 6)

"Fair" Weather Is Forecast

The Lake County Fair opened Wednesday at the Fair Grounds at Grayslake, with youth holding sway as the 4-H Clubs exhibited their various projects and presented a horse show.

On Tuesday, before the opening of the Fair, the Lake County Health Dept. had held a food handling class for all organizations and individuals having food concessions.

The Health Dept. brings out the most important elements of safe food-handling during this short course.

Ward Duell, Supervising Sanitarian, conducted the course. Chest X-Rays to detect tuberculosis are a must for food-handlers, and all those at the Fair are required to have had a negative report from a skin test or X-Ray within the last year. At the close of the course, food-handlers are given a temporary permit.

The former Miss America, Marilyn VanDerbur, will be at the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. booth on Thursday, and will crown the 1963 Queen, Karyn Silanoff of Antioch, Miss Lake Region, will be one of the Beauty Queen contestants, sponsored by the Lake Region Jaycees.

The McKinley Rodeo will perform Friday, Saturday and Sunday (July 26, 27 and 28) starting at 8 p.m., with a matinee on Sunday starting at 2:30 p.m.

The Apaloosa and Arabian Horse Show is Friday, starting at noon.

A Western horse show Saturday will start at 9 a.m. The Shetland Pony Show starts at 1 p.m. Sunday.

A fireworks exhibition will climax the rodeo performances on Friday and Saturday.

One of the features of the Fair will be the Pigeon show. A special large tent is devoted to the various breeds.

The talented Teens variety program will start at 8:15 Thursday night. The Lake County winner of the Talented Teen contest will win the right to compete with Chicago winners at the Free Fair in Chicago, where prizes will be savings bonds.

The Fair Ground is located at the junction of Routes 45 and 120, about 10 miles west of Waukegan and 1 mile east of Grayslake.

Grade School office, 817 N. Main Street, Antioch. The school office is open Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Register Kids Now

School officials of the Antioch Grade School Dist. 34 urge that all new pupils and kindergarten children be registered before the first day of school.

To be eligible for kindergarten, a child must be five years old before December 1, 1963. If the child will be six years old before that date, he is eligible for first grade. A birth certificate must be presented upon registration. The kindergarten fee for the 1963-64 school year will be $7.50, payable when registering.

Registrations will be taken for both Antioch and Oakland students at the Antioch

Farm Pilots To Gather

If you happen to look up Sunday and notice an unusually large number of aircraft buzzing around town, don't get alarmed, we're not being invaded. It's just the Wisconsin Chapter of the "Flying Farmers" holding a fly-in at the Oran Raether Farm, located east of route 45 on State Line Road.

The "Flying Farmers" and their families will start arriving at the Raether farm about 9 a.m. where they will attend a picnic lunch. Over 60 persons in an estimated 115 airplanes are expected to turn out for the affair.

Planes from all over Wisconsin, plus members from neighboring chapters in Illinois and Indiana, will land at Raether's landing strip Sunday and take part in the outdoor luncheon.

Following the picnic, the group will take a tour of the Chain O' Lakes in boats furnished by the Johnson Motor Company of Waukegan. The Antioch Chapter of Commerce will furnish transportation to and from Sequoia Harbor, the starting place of the tour. Scheduled to start at noon, the boat trip will extend throughout the Chain, arriving back at Sequoia Harbor by 3 p.m.

The flyers must start their return trip in ample time to arrive at their home field before dark.

The "Flying Farmers" is a nationwide organization with chapters in practically every state in the union. The club is made up of farmers who own their own planes and is basically a social group. They do, however, watch over State and Federal legislation concerning small aircraft flying. Many of the members have their own landing strips and house their aircraft on their own property.

Each chapter is organized with a staff of officers and a Queen. The Queen serves as an official greeter for the chapter. The next scheduled affair for the Wisconsin Chapter will be the International meeting held next week at Rapid City, S. Dak. Oran Raether is presently serving as vice president of the Wisconsin chapter.

EDITORIAL

Don't Shoot -- Vote!

We have to admit to a little glow of warm delight at the heartfelt expression of indignation by Mrs. Irene Fisher of Antioch in a recent Letter to the Editor—in another newspaper.

To quote Mrs. Fisher, who was speaking about the recent announced plan of the State's Attorney's office to seize personal property and sell it to satisfy delinquent personal property tax claims, "In conclusion, any idiot dressed in police clothes, whether or not he is legally a cop is going to get his tail full of buckshot if he thinks he can come and steal anything his little heart desires."

America was founded on the principal of refusal to bow to injustice, in and out of government. The men who dumped a load of tea in the drink at Boston might have been called outlaws if their side hadn't won the war.

However, it seems too bad to shoot a poor deputy, when he's only a man trying to keep a job, and doing a job he's been ordered to do. He's probably as reluctant to grab your property as you are to have him do it. But he's got a family to feed, and he needs his job.

It would even be too bad to shoot his boss, Charlie Larson. Your sheriff really can't refuse to serve papers that the State's Attorney's office sends him.

So instead of working off your indignation by threatening to shoot the inoffensive deputy, who is no more responsible for this law than you are, why don't you say it where it will do some good?

How about writing to your State's Attorney, who decided to collect this tax? And how about assuring him that you're going to remember this injustice when it comes time to vote again—And carrying out your promise?

In fact, while you're writing, why don't you write to the men really responsible for this tax? Your representatives in the state legislature. Why doesn't every man who is indignant about this unfair tax promise his legislators that they aren't going to be re-elected if this tax isn't removed? No excuses accepted, and keep that promise at the ballot box. You'd get action.

And while you're in an indignant mood, you might remember that if your county board wasn't spending money like a drunken sailor, it wouldn't be necessary to put on a drive to collect this tax.

Indignant letters are fine for working off steam—and that's often just what they accomplish. Nothing more. But the pen is really mightier than the gun when it's making that X in the ballot box. Your public officials really listen to that.

What Are Civil Rights?

James Meredith, after being booed by negroes at the NAACP convention in Chicago, commented sadly on the course being pursued by that organization, and thousands of his fellows, in the Civil Rights fight. He pointed out in a television interview shortly afterward that the negro groups were displaying the same intolerance they profess to be fighting against—the intolerance which he believed he was fighting against when he endured insults, personal danger and ostracism to become the first negro to attend the University of Mississippi.

Meredith's remark points up tellingly that the only difference between the average white man and the average black man is the color of skin. The question arises as to what it is the negro really wants. We haven't heard any clear, point-by-point enumeration of this by the NAACP or any other representative of the negro race. Are negroes themselves clear and agreed as to their ultimate objective?

If it's desegregation of every tax-supported institution and facility in the U.S., the right to vote and exercise his privileges and duties as a U.S. citizen, the majority of Northerners, and probably a great many Southerners, will willingly concede it's high time these rights were accepted facts.

But civil rights demonstration in the states outside the south seem to clearly demonstrate this is not all that the bulk of the negroes want, or hope for. And it's doubtful if many of the negroes themselves could agree on their aims.

Before any more people get hurt, it would seem to be President Kennedy's responsibility at this time to step in and insist that Roy Wilkins and other negro leaders draw up a clear statement of their exact aims and desires, and quit speaking fuzzy phrases like "civil rights", which may mean quite different things to different people. It would also seem to be our President's responsibility to insist that demonstrations be abandoned in those places where the legitimate rights agreed on have already been granted.

The recent incident in a Dallas post office, where it is charged three negroes were promoted over whites with higher seniority, indicates the advantage being taken of the explosive situation. Surely it is not too much to expect white and negro leaders to get together and determine realistically what can and cannot be accomplished by legislation, and the enforcement of existing legislation. It shouldn't be too much to expect leaders of both races to forget politics and personal aggrandizement, and accept responsibility for the storm they've raised, and work honestly toward peaceable and realistic solutions. The negro has had much cause for bitterness. Acts that cause justifiable bitterness on either side can only delay the eventual solution of a truly knotty problem.

Courthouse Notebook

BY LOU DURKIN

Somebody apparently jumped the gun on the announcement last week that personal property of personal property tax delinquents would be confiscated by the county to satisfy the tax claims.

State's Attorney Bruno W. Stanczak and Sheriff Charles Larson were quick to announce that additional time would be granted before such drastic action was taken by their offices.

The confiscation announcement smacked of arrogance and totalitarianism and indicated that the officials responsible could use some public relations counsel.

Those responsible for the collection of the unpopular personal property tax have never tried expaining and selling the tax to the people and consequently few people realize that the personal property tax is distributed to all local taxing bodies the same as the real estate tax.

Elimination of the tax or a low collection percentage means an increase in the real estate tax.

Education along these lines might result in better collection without the direct action threats now being used.

Many public officials will be at Glen Flora Country Club today (Thursday) competing in Stan Cory's Miller High Life tournament as a warm up for political golf outings slated in the near future. Next stop on the political golf circuit is the McHenry County Club, site of the annual McHenry County Republican Central Committee outing on July 31.

This is a popular event with Lake County officials and does much to cement relations between the two counties.

You just never know where you'll run into some fascinating bits of news. Here's some gleanings from the American Medical Assoc. News:

The nation had its highest March death rate in 16 years as the result of the flu epidemic last winter.

The city council of a Minnesota town cancelled its mosquito spraying program when told the program would be "potentially" fatal to a woman suffering from leukemia. A doctor from the Mayo Clinic said that spraying last year had made the woman's condition worse.

The Tobacco Institute has decided to stop advertising their products in campus publications. (Parents who have to pay for student's cigarettes will be grateful for this one.)

California's State Senate passed a bill to prevent newspapers from learning the medical reasons for a person's death. Newspapers, increasingly hampered in their efforts to report news, won't be grateful for this one.

The plumbers, with nothing to go by except the blueprints in custody of the village, are having a very difficult and costly job of finding these tie-ins (with resultant disrepair of village streets).

Could it be that this contracting firm, (which will also do plumbing work) has two sets of blueprints? One for the plumber's use, which is inaccurate, and one for their own use when the other plumbers throw up their hands in disgust?

Or, is it possible this firm is so incompetent that it just couldn't do a proper job?

I think we who pay the bills have a right to know.

ANY QUESTIONS?

As stated in our editorial last week, there will be questions and answers in this column each week concerning Countryside Hospital.

Readers are invited to send in any questions they may have concerning the new hospital and fund drive. We pass them on to the Hospital Board, who answers them and returns them to us.

Here are the first ones:
1. Why is a bed listed as costing $750.00, and a drinking fountain as $500.00, etc., when they don't actually cost this much?

Answer: It is not intended that there necessarily be any definite relationship between the cost of a special gift and the amount of the actual construction cost. Any gift to the hospital is an act of charity. The amount a person gives is up to them, determined by whatever motivates them to give. The Special Gift opportunities are made available for those contributors who wish to give in a special way for a special reason. The "return" from any charitable contribution is the satisfaction of having supported a worthy cause.

2. Does the professional group managing the drive collect 10% of the total collected at the end of the immediate drive, at the end of the three-year pledge period, or what?

Answer: The professional group directing the Campaign does not receive any percentage of the funds collected. This group is paid a flat, pre-determined fee per month for the full time services of two men. As previously reported in the local newspapers, the professional fees will be less than 3% of the total campaign minimum goal of $750,000.00. Any money secured over that minimum Campaign goal will lower this percentage. This 4fee is paid out of pre-campaign funds that were in the Countryside Hospital Association Treasury.

Any inquiries for volunteer services may be addressed to me.
Thank you sincerely for your cooperation.
Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Mildred D. Mayberry, ACSW, Medical Social Worker, Muscular Dystrophy Assoc. of America, 203 North Wabash Chicago 1, Illinois (Note: The Camp is located at Palatine, Ill. The summer camping period is Aug. 11-21. All activities of regular camping are included in the program.)

Your Congressman Reports....

By Cong. Robert McClary

This is the way the "civil rights issue" looks from the inside.

Civil rights legislation will submerge every other issue in this session of the Congress. This development was apparent to many (including this Member of Congress) who introduced bills early in the session and who hoped for early passage of a reasonable civil rights program.

Very few residents of the 12th Congressional District, be they Republican or Democrat, black or white, question the wisdom of civil rights measures which implement our federal Constitution or which recognize the validity of our U. S. Supreme Court decisions.

The civil rights issue has been dramatized recently by the admission of three Negro students to the University of Alabama. This event occurred nine years after the U. S. Supreme Court had declared that segregated schools were unconstitutional. Yet, during the 9 year interval, not a single child was integrated into the Alabama public school system.

Mass demonstrations, particularly by Negro citizens seeking to register to vote, focused additional attention on the subordinate status of our colored compatriots. Other mass demonstrations have followed touching other areas of discrimination. Some violence, physical injury, and death have resulted. Also, some achievements have resulted.

Unfortunately, the Administration has been torn between civil rights proponents among some Democrats of the North and its bitterest opponents among the Democrats from the South. To gain support for other measures (so-called "New Frontier bills," the Administration did not accompany words with deeds until the President's message was delivered to the Congress on June 21st. About a week later the Attorney General made his first appearance before the House Judiciary Committee in behalf of Civil Rights legislation. (This Member testified before the same Committee back in March.)

The civil rights dilemma has its brighter side. Whatever legislation is passed will require bi-partisan support. This is certainly as it should be. Republicans and Democrats alike should respect the right to vote (and to have votes counted honestly), the right to equal educational opportunities in our public schools, opportunities to become apprentices and union members without discrimination because of color, and other equal protection of the laws coincide with our American citizenship.

Another bright ray on the horizon is the probable defeat of most of the "New Frontier" legislative proposals. Southern Democrats, who have "gone along" while the Administration "took it easy" on the South's built-in segregation, are mad. A stepped up ARA program, "medicare," "federal aid to education," "domestic peace corps," and "youth conservation corps," as well as similar "spending bills" (calling for new bureaus, and increased payrolls) are probably dead. Republican Members of Congress, who will back reasonable civil rights legislation (as they have traditionally) will not support new programs to increase our national deficit—no matter how sweet-sounding they might be.

It looks from here as though the Congress will pass through the Congress will pass—and that's about all.

When the House of Representatives passed a bill to exempt boiled peanuts from federal control last week, one of our Representatives remarked that the Congress is indeed "dealing with peanuts" when we should be wrestling with the great

Your Governor Reports

by OTTO KERNER

The recent General Assembly took a positive step when it voted to abolish the Illinois Public Aid Commission (IPAC) and replace it with a cabinet-level department under the Governor's Office.

The proposal to focus responsibility for the administration of the public assistance program was first advanced a dozen years ago by the bipartisan Commission on Study State Government. I made a similar recommendation two years ago. The legislature in its recent session saw fit to adopt that recommendation.

There has been unanimous agreement that the IPAC members, on their own time and without pay, have done an outstanding job. But the aid program reached such a magnitude that the commission format was no longer adequate.

Public Aid accounts for about one-fifth of the state's budget. It was inconceivable that an agency which handles such a large portion of the state's business should be removed from the governor's direct line of responsibility.

Administrative responsibility is difficult to place when such administration is by a commission. The aid program has often been controversial. The result has been that frustrated critics, unable to pin blame elsewhere, have sometimes wound up badgering unfortunate and relatively helpless recipients.

Under the new administrative structure there is direct responsibility. In addition, policy questions can be resolved more quickly. Under the former system many critical matters had to wait many days, until the commission's regular monthly meeting for decisions.

The new public aid department is another of the policies adopted under this administration designed to cope with public aid. I have reported previously on our stepped-up efforts to reduce the workload of caseworkers, expand retraining and vocational education for recipients and impose additional safeguards on unnecessary expenditures.

This positive approach has resulted in a reversal of the tide of public aid payments. The new department should allow an even more effective approach to this serious problem.

Issues: Still, the peanut bill and other less sensational bills passed by this Congress are very important to various groups of citizens—and some note should be taken of them.

The boiled peanut bill, itself, is of particular significance to a small group of peanut growers in the State of Florida. Indeed, the business of raising peanuts for boiling is so good that these particular farmers want nothing to do with acreage controls or price supports. The complete purpose and effect of H. R. 101, sponsored by Congressman Billy Matthews, Democrat of Florida, is to exempt peanuts used for boiling from government regulation and control. A small bill, perhaps, but a refreshing spring of free enterprise in a whirlpool of bureaucracy and big government.

And what about bills to promote safety at sea which were passed a few days ago? H. R. 6012 provides for the adoption of uniform regulations to prevent costly and disastrous collisions. S. 1036 requires improved anchor lights and fog signals on our island waters and western rivers. These bills didn't make the headlines, but they may prevent future headlines of disaster or collisions at sea. H. R. 5781 will will Merchant Marine status to nurses who serve on our merchant ships.

Other recent bills passed by the House of Representatives at Washington will:

(a) Increase allowances to jurors in federal courts.
(b) Relieve census takers of making personal visits.
(c) Authorize granting of military awards for bravery in the "cold war."
(d) Permit the Island of Guam to undertake an urban renewal program.
(e) Extend an invitation to hold the 1968 Winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid, New York.

(f) Require a daily ceremony in connection with the raising and lowering of the 50 American flags surrounding the Washington Monument in the nation's capital.

These are among the more than 40 bills passed on the "Consent Calendar" last week. The last bill passed "without objection" was as significant as the boiled peanut bill. Again, free enterprise showed through the maze of governmental regulation and control. This bill provided for unlimited wheat acreage in the Tulelake, California, area. Acreage allotments, subsidies and price supports may affect wheat crops in all other parts of the nation, but under S. 762 passed by the House last week, Tulelake in California will be free of all of these.

The Congress may be charged with passing only unimportant bills. But, the critics should elaborate the expression "unimportant." Unimportant—to whom?

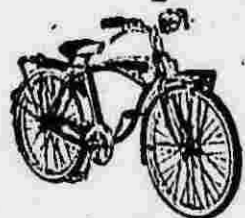

Again, it may be asked whether the "state of the nation" would be better or worse if the Congress should suddenly pass all of the "important" bills still pending on the calendar and in committees.

In the opinion of this Member of Congress, it would be well to complete our work on the "little" bills and defer permanently many of the so-called "New Frontier" bills.

The thing most needed in the American home today is the family.

empty cans, bottles and paper sacks and boxes. And, crowding indignity, the chrome strip from their new car was neatly peeled off and tossed onto the ground.

They called a ranger. He came and inspected, and with frequent exclamations of, "Aren't those animals smart?" (the Willets were not in the mood to join the Bears Admiralty Society), he reconstructed the crime from past experience and present evidence.

The bear, he explained, had become annoyed when the trunk of the car didn't open at the first try. Irritably made him remove the chrome strip. Lucky for them, said the ranger, that it didn't take Mr. Bear too long to solve the puzzle. They'd been known to rip the doors from cars when their search for food was frustrated too long.

The Willets tried to be happy over their good fortune. They found it difficult.

Finding the trunk still balky, even with the chrome removed, Mr. Bear, the ranger decided, had climbed on top of it (about 600 pounds of him, he guessed) and bounced—up—and—down. This brought progress. It sprung the trunk door pretty thoroughly and he could insert his paw. The rest was easy. A good tug tore it open. And there were all those delightful cans, etc. to investigate.

He didn't wait to find a can opener. Claws and teeth work fine, if you're a bear.

An astronaut isn't really a success until he's down and out.

What he liked, he ate. What he didn't like, he dumped disdainfully on the ground. Bears like mayonnaise, the Willets discovered. The bottles were licked cleaner than Jack Spratt's plate.

The ranger commented rather sadly that he guessed this particular bear would have to be eliminated from the park. Getting too mean. The Willets felt rather guilty—and very hungry.

So the next time you read Yogi Berra, don't sneer in disbelief. Building a picnic table with legs ten feet tall isn't really ridiculous. Unless there's a tree nearby. Bears can climb trees, you know. And how would you like to have a bear plump in the middle of your lunch?

Married 50 Years

Mrs. and Mrs. Herman R. Babe of 9 Sheridan Road (Grass Lake) are living proof that a long engagement is not always a necessary ingredient of a long and happy marriage.

The Babes, who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on August 4, met just thirteen days before they were married. Mr. Babe was working on a paving construction job in Kalamazoo, Mich., when he met Hannah. They were married in less than two weeks and returned to Chicago, Mr. Babe's home. Their marriage was blessed with ten children, of whom eight survived. One son, George Frederick, died in World War II.

Their remaining children are Herman Robert, Jr., Bob, Northbrook, Ill.; Mrs. June-itta Pedersen, Round Lake; Mrs. Charles Comens, Carpentersville; William, Grass Lake, and Mrs. Ruth Tar-kowsky, Grass Lake, who lives next door to her parents. They have 19 grandchildren.

The Babes have been summer residents of the Grass Lake area for about 42 years. They made their permanent home here about ten years ago.

The Babes' anniversary is on August 1, but they will celebrate on August 4, with an Open House and buffet dinner at their home.

Mari Anne's CHATTER

There is nothing like spending a Sunday afternoon going thru old scrapbooks. In one, we find a poem with no record of the author but it is very 'timely'.

It goes something like this:

Our mantel shelf
Now boasts a clock
That doesn't tick
And it doesn't tick.
Its face is as bland
As it can be,
It conceals a heart of...
Electricity.

It goes on to say that time is valuable and should not be wasted but on the other hand, it is a pity not to realize it is going. The last verse...

"An electric clock is an enemy Who steals out time Silently..."

What we are finally getting around to is simply this, time is marching on and as far as we are concerned it is a fast march. That is why MARI-ANNE'S is having a clearance sale of summer merchandise. The whole lot and caboodle of our spring and summer stock is out and you can practically name your own price. It would take a whole page to list the values of this merchandise from our Children's and Women's sections, we would rather you make your own inspection.

And of course we are having our famous two-for-one sale. This means you buy one dress at regular price and for only $1.00 more you can have two.

There are many bargains in coats, suits, dresses and sportswear. We invite you to see them all, remember the place, it is MARI-ANNE'S in the center of ANTIOCH.

Sullivan Wins: Stillman Spins Out At Wilmot

Jim Sullivan, Antioch modified stock car driver, currently second in point standings at the Kenosha County Speedway in Wilmot, won a surprise feature race when Ed Stillman of Milwaukee spun out while leading. Stillman is current defending champion of the track and point leader in the 1983 race for the championship.

Stillman started outside in the third row and took the lead from Bill Strom of Milwaukee on the fourth lap. He led all the way through the 24th lap but lost control and went off the track on the backstretch with less than half a lap to go to the checkered flag.

The 25 lap win marked Sullivan's second of the season to five for Stillman. Stillman didn't go away without a win, for he did score in the fourth 10 lap race and set a new track record in doing it. His time was an average speed of 54.05 mph. This erased Sullivan's record of July 6th of this year, when he averaged 51.28 mph.

In the feature, Gordy Gorman of Libertyville, lost control on the back stretch in the 13th lap and rolled over, taking out more than 100 feet of fence. He had to be helped from the car but was not injured, only shaken up. Heat race winners were: Claude Potter of Twin Lakes, Wis., Jim Olett of Hales Corners; Ted Schuster of Zion, and Ed Stillman.

Bill Bohn of Bristol, the 1982 Rookie of the Year, was honored in Driver Interview Time and then went out to score his first win of the season in the 15-lap semi-feature.

Spectator car action was particularly exciting as the boys got back in action following last week's rain out. Dick Aleson of McHenry won his heat and the feature while Gene Barth of Antioch won the second heat.

Next week two more drivers will be honored during the Driver Interview Time, which gives the fans first hand color of the driver's side of the sport of Stock Car Racing.

Trophy Won By Hallwas On Display

That beautiful trophy on display at the Antioch Bowl is here because Roger Hallwas of Antioch had a part in winning it.

The trophy was won by the Illinois team in the Tri-State tournament last spring. It will be on display at the Antioch Bowl, then sent on to the home alley of another member of the team.

Roger, along with other youngsters from the Antioch Bowl, competed with youngsters from all over Illinois for the privilege of representing Rockford, and Illinois, in the Tri-State tournament. He was the only bowler from Antioch who made the finals.

The twelve Illinois bowlers—two from each division (Senior boys, senior girls, Junior boys, Junior girls, Bantam boys, Bantam girls)—competed with bowlers from their own division from other states. Points were awarded to each bowler according to highest pins, second, third, etc. The Illinois team rolled up the highest score and won the trophy.

The tournament was sponsored by WTVO, Channel 39, Rockford.

New Owners At Speedway

Bob Karry, well-known driver at the Waukegan Speedway, is retiring from active racing, but not from the track.

He and Gordon Sill, of Antioch, have taken over the management of Waukegan Speedway. The two men signed a five year lease of the track Monday.

Buildings at the race track will be completely rebuilt and remodeled, Karry announced, starting immediately with the wash rooms. Mike Kaishian was formerly manager of the track.

"It's going to be a new track," Bob Karry said. "Everything's going to be cleaned up and remodeled. Rest rooms, etc., will be made completely sanitary and in conformance with Board of Health regulations."

The new owners of the track will kick-off the new regime with a Grand Opening Saturday and Sunday nights, July 27 and 28, featuring a free night for kids under 12 years of age and a number of Special Events both nights.

Saturday night, as usual, will feature the Sportsman's and late model racers, plus Special Events. Sunday, July 28, features the 50-lap mid-season championship race of the modified stocks, plus several Special Events. The name of the track, under the new management, will be the Lake County Racing Association.

Gordon Sill is the father of Karen Sillanoff, Miss Lake Region of 1983. Bob Karry is a resident of Lindenhurst.

TALENT IS AN INFINITE CAPACITY FOR IMITATING GENIUS.

There is something new going on around these parts. If not new, at least different. Barney Shunnesson has a unique kind of fishing contest in motion at his diggings on Channel Lake. It goes something like this: The fishermen bring in their catch, which is then measured, recorded, tagged and released. Barney has devised a schedule of points, based on the size and kind of fish caught and released. The record, which is hanging on a wall, is kept up to date and visible for inspection. Fishermen with the most points cop off the merchandise awards. And here is the interesting part. Quite a few of the released fish are being caught again, and these in turn are also recorded. It is surprising that a fish will let himself get caught yet again. They're supposed to be smart. There goes another great truth shot to bits.

Guides are guys who can stand just about anybody. For twelve dollars a day and grub they'll associate with fishermen. For twenty bucks there's no telling what they'll do.

The Mr. and Mrs. fishing contests get under way August 12th and run thru August 19. The individual competition runs from September thru 22nd. No entry fee is required and you can sign up at Barney's.

I am broad minded Annie honey and I don't feel insulted.

NOSTALGIA DEPT.—Beel Brook, Jim Carlson, Harry Novotny and little ole me got together Sunday for a good old-fashioned gab-fest, beating our gums to a frazzle. The talk naturally drifted to the good old days (when things were bad) and this is where Harry shines. There was this local outlaw who was trapping fish illegally and selling them. He did his poaching on the Fox River up from Grass Lake and Harry got wind of it. So he dragged the river one night to learn the exact location of the traps, and when he found them, next spent two nights in the stench, waiting for this guy to come for his ill-earned catch. That was the year we saw those great big mosquitoes over Barney's Island. Harry swears they siphoned him anaemic. Anyhow, perseverance paid off and this guy was nabbed with the evidence. His statement on being caught was: "lookit what some dirty skunk is doing." It cost him three hundred and fifty bucks, and what is more, respected Harry for being smart enough to nab him. Another time, Harry caught four guys fishing without a "license." This was during the late Great Depression, and these fellows told Harry they not

BOATING WITH BOWMAN

By Hank Bowman

LET THE SAILBOATS GO FIRST

Many powerboat operators seem to resent the fact that according to the "Rules of the Road," sailboats always have the right of way.

These antagonists of the wind fleet apparently feel that the sailors were somehow able to swing a lobby and that the rules came about because the sailboatmen got there first and the outboarders with the powered rigs are Johnny-come-latelies.

But that isn't the reason why powerboatmen have to give way, chop their throttles, bow and say, "Sails first."

The reason lies in the way a sailboat operates. Boatmen of all sorts engage in their pleasures usually on open expanses of water with no carefully defined routes.

Courses can be chosen at random. There are no stop streets, no cloverleafs and no center-land markers.

To bring some order to the potential chaos this could create, the Rules of the Road were devised. (I don't know why they weren't called "Rules of the Water.")

The powerboatman can usually see all the way around the horizon. The veteran powerboatman takes full advantage of this and doesn't look straight ahead and to the right or left but checks behind him as well before he makes any radical change in course.

The sailor by contrast frequently operates partially blind. You just can't see through sails.

And further, a sailing vessel proceeds against the wind, or any way—but downwind, by tacking. To reach a given point, sailing vessels change course and travel a zigzag rather than straight line.

The powerboatman should keep in mind that he may be approaching a sailboat from its blind side, that the sailboat may suddenly come about, creating a collision possibility.

Don't expect the sailboat suddenly to clear the way, for it doesn't have powerboat acceleration.

So what this amounts to is when the powerboatman only didn't have any money to buy a license (they cost 50 cents in those days) but had to catch some fish if their families were to eat that night. So he bought each of them a license and turned 'em loose, after he found that their story checked out. He always was a swell guy (and still is). No names are mentioned because they are still living and this scribbler subscribes to the principle of "let him who is without sin cast a stone." I have no stones to throw.

At night most fishermen like to sit around a fire and spit in it. They like to hear it sizzle. After a day of fishing it makes sense.

spots a sailboat, he should give it as wide berth as possible.

Pass behind a sailboat, not ahead of it, and in restricted passageways, be constantly on the alert for a sailboat to alter its course.

Don't use your signal device as a warning to a sailboat, for under the Rules of the Road, whistle signals are not exchanged between a motorboat and a sailing vessel or between two sailing vessels.

The reason for this again isn't based on any inherent snobbery that sailingboats won't speak to motorboats, but rather because a motorboat with its greater flexibility is expected to keep out of the way of boats under sail.

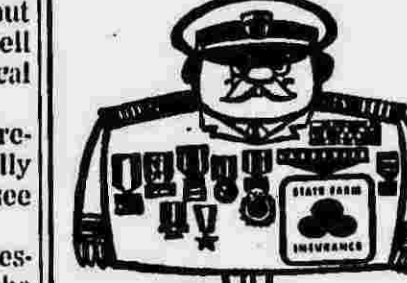

LOOK WHO'S TALKING

Two burglars had broken into a clothing store and were busy sorting out some suits, when one of them saw, one marked $125.00.

"Bert, look at the price of that one," he said, "Why it's down-right robbery, ain't it?"

A soft answer turneth away few door-to-door salesmen.

"NO SEWER-HOOK-UPS WITHOUT PLANS," MAYOR ADVISES

A hassle developed when Ray Toft presented the request of Ellis Storey that he be allowed to install eight stub-ins for water and sewer on an undeveloped piece of property at Anita St. and North Ave. The property, Toft said, will later be developed as eight lots, a small subdivision. Mayor Cunningham pointed out that once the stub-ins were in, the owner could sell the lots individually, thus avoiding conforming with the village subdivision ordinance, which calls for the developer to blacktop streets and install curbs and sidewalks. The village board over-rode his objections, and voted to issue the permit. Mr. Cunningham then said that if they were granting such permission to Storey, he would request it for his own property in the same vicinity, and did so. The board voted to permit Mr. Cunningham to install nine hook-ups in a parcel of land on Anita Ave., and two hook-ups on a parcel of land owned by Mr. Cunningham and Ellis Storey on Anita Ave.

The appropriation ordinance for the village for this year was read and approved, and is published elsewhere in this paper.

Plans and specifications for the new village hall, to be built as an addition on the east side of the Fire Department building, were discussed and approved. A motion was made to advertise for bids on the new building, and approved. The bids will be opened at the next board meeting on August 6. An ad for bids is elsewhere in this paper.

The board discussed the matter of presenting a formal protest to the Ill. Bell Telephone Co. Ernest Glenn pointed out that Antioch had only one area of toll-free calls outside Antioch (Lake Villa). Other villages, he said, had three or four, including toll-free calls to Waukegan. The board decided to discuss the matter with representatives of Ill. Bell, and see if the situation couldn't be improved.

They were without phone service for 30 hours. One light pole was blown down by the wind.

Throughout the area, the downpour of rain, driven by the 60-mile-an-hour wind, produced unexpected flooding. Many homes had rain running in through the closed windows, as water couldn't run out of window apertures as fast as it was driven in and water standing over sills poured in through openings.

Tree-removing crews are still working throughout the daylight hours at homes around Antioch, removing felled trees and branches.

Public Meeting

To Discuss
Algae Bloom

A meeting to inform the public on the study of the algae bloom in the Fox Chain O' Lakes has been scheduled by the Lake County Health Dept. for Friday, July 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grant Community High School auditorium.

A representative from the Health Dept., the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, the U. S. Public Health Service, and one from a consultant that will be working on the study, will be present to the public. According to John Morris of the Lake County Health Dept., the U. S. Public Health Service is cooperating in the study through the efforts of Congressman Robert McClory.

The consultants who have been hired to assist in the study, according to Mr. Morris, are a group from the University of Wisconsin headed by Professor Gerard Rohlich. They have made a study of the control of algae bloom and have worked on the problem at Madison, Wis., and other areas.

Central High Board Meets

The 1963-64 budget for Central High School was discussed by board members at the meeting of the Board of Education of the school at its July 9 meeting, before presenting it to the public at the annual district meeting on Monday, July 15.

Two teachers are still needed to complete next year's staff.

A communication from the Chicago office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was read. It declared that the high line poles on the school forest property belong to the school district and may be used by the school as it sees fit.

It was also reported that the contracts for bids for the various commodities used during the school year have been mailed to people interested in the bids.

Members of the board examined the summer renovating program and work being done on the roof.

Minister, just before the responsive reading: "Will the lady who always arrives at the 'still waters', please wait for us this time."

4 Cars In Collision

At least three cars were involved in a "chain-reaction" accident on Route 173 west of Antioch Friday evening about 6 p.m. A fourth car which witnesses said was also involved pulled away immediately after the collisions.

The accident occurred when Rudolph Toman, 2345 S. Harvey, Berwyn, was making a right turn off Route 173 into a road in Felter's Subdivision. His car was struck in the rear by one driven by Edmee M. Zimmerman, 227 School St., Chicago, who was driving a car owned by her father, Fred Warner of Antioch. Her car had been struck in the rear by a car driven by Clarence Christian, P.O. Box 66, Antioch, who said his car had been struck by another which then pulled away.

Toman's car was pushed into a field beside the road by the force of the collision. He was not injured.

Fred Warner, a passenger in the car driven by his daughter, was shaken up, but not injured.

Deputy Edward Jukat of the Sheriff's office, who handled the case, said Christian was charged with having No Operator's license.

"Where Saving is Rewarding"

This Is Antioch's Sewerage Plant

On Turner Drive, off Broadway, there's a modern, efficient, $200,000.00 plant which you own. If you're a resident of Antioch. At least, you own a portion of it. Have you ever seen it?

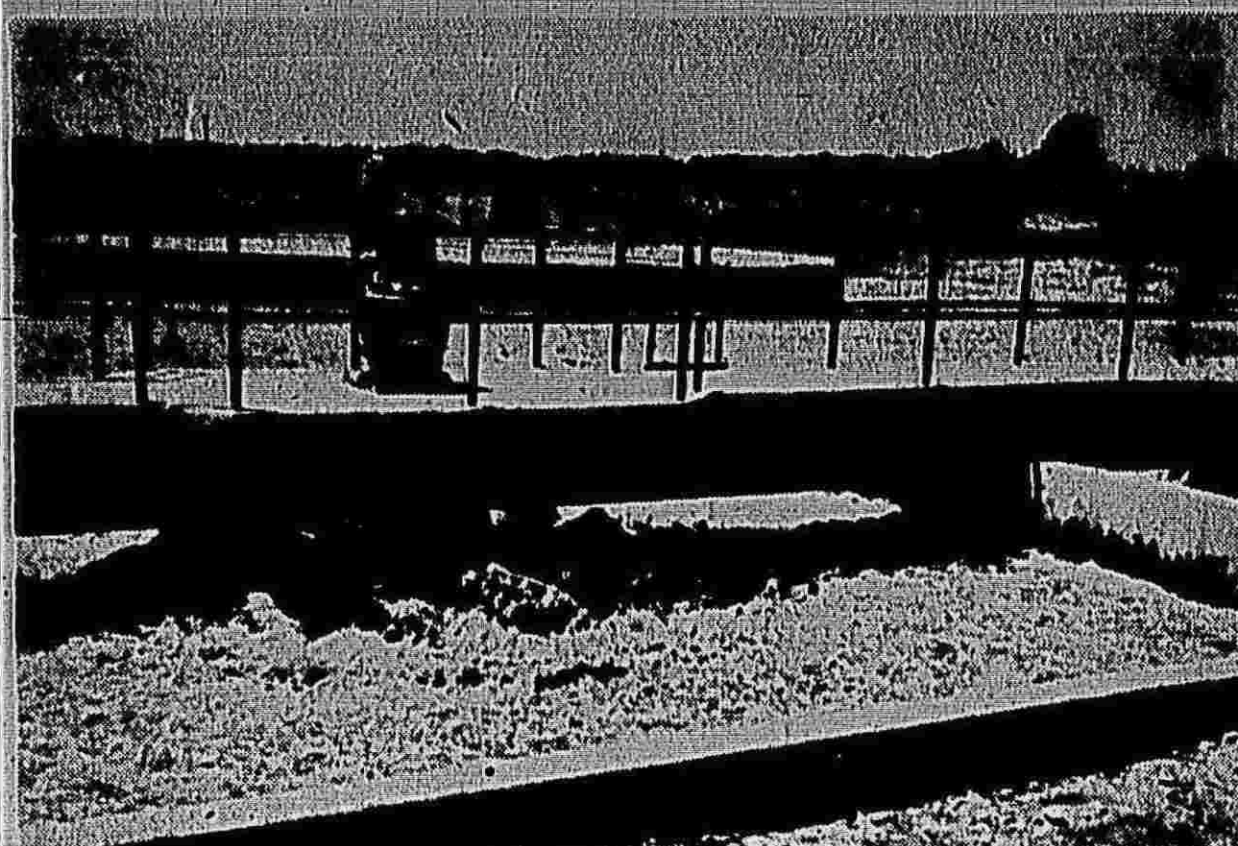

Charles (Tod) Maplethorpe, Superintendent of Public Works, and Jim Quedenfeld, are the qualified operators of Antioch's plant. If the word "sewerage" holds a connotation of unskilled labor for you, think again. The modern plant operator is a trained technician, who has to attend a special school to learn his trade. The epic and span laboratory contains expensive and up-to-date pieces of equipment for performing certain tests on the treated sewage. A BOD test must be made at least once a week, and the result recorded for state inspection. Tests must also be made regularly to preserve a correct balance in various tanks through which the sewage passes for treatment. A chlorine comparator chart helps to determine if the proper amount of chlorine is being added.

To perform these tasks, Tod and Jim must have certificates of competency from the state. Tod is a Class 2 operator, Jim is Class 4, will be promoted in a year.

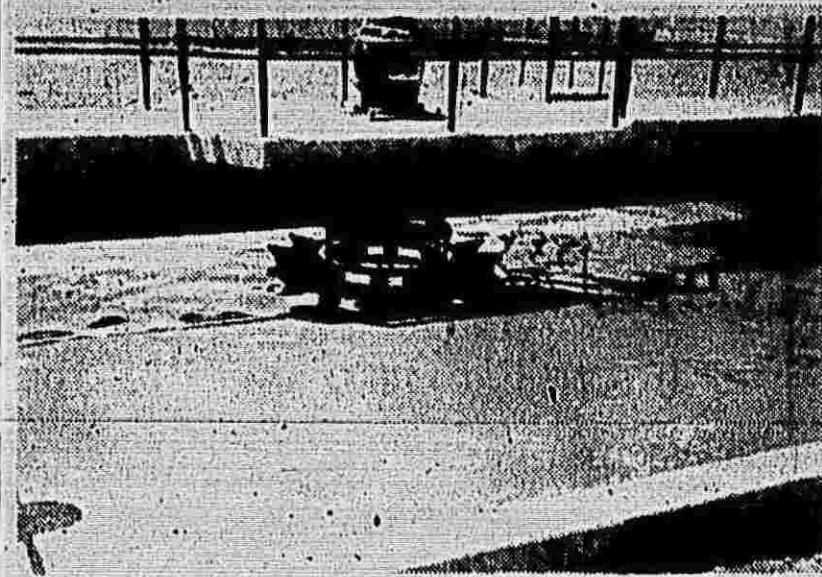

Federal inspectors who inspected the plant recently were so impressed with the excellent planning that went into the plant, including the provision for expansion should the town's population increase greatly, that they asked permission to come back and take pictures for a magazine lay-out. So though a sewerage plant may seem like a strange thing to point to with pride, Antioch can be proud of its modern and efficient plant.

Sewage treatment in the Antioch plant is entirely bacteriological. The only chemical treatment is the addition of chlorine to the water which, finally flows clear and without solids from the last treatment tank.

Perhaps you find the subject of sewage distasteful, and couldn't care less what happens to it once it leaves your home, so long as drains continue to operate efficiently and no obnoxious odors assail your nose. However, modern disposal plants are rather a marvel of efficient engineering. The manner in which the forces of nature are put to work to solve one of man's biggest problems in crowded communities, the utilization of the by-products of the decomposition process to keep the cycle operating at lowest possible cost, makes a conducted tour of the plant an interesting and educational event.

THIS IS THE AERATING tank, second step in the treatment process. The large metal rotating blades beneath the concrete walkway keep the water in the tank agitated, introducing extra oxygen in to the water.

Entering the plant area, little if any odor will be noticed, normally. Certain phases of the operation will make the odor noticeable, particularly if you're standing near the large open tanks. Within the building, where the machinery is housed, the odor of methane gas, produced in the digester, is noticeable to the casual visitor.

To try to follow the general course of the sewage from the time it enters the disposal plant through the various stages of treatment: The raw sewage first enters a comminuter, which grinds the solids. Next, it flows into the settling tanks, where it is held for two hours, while the solids settle to the bottom.

With most of the solids settled, the liquid next flows into the aerator tank.

The solids remaining in the settling tank are scraped into the sludge hopper twice a day, from where they proceed to the digester. The scrapers can be turned on either at the tank, or by use of a remote control system engineer David Miller had installed within the building.

The aerator tank has a large wheel of open blades in the center. Turned on, the blades peek the water agitated, adding oxygen to the water, which the bacteria need to work. Activated sludge, which is simply waste containing the bacteria which eat up the solids, is added to the tank. The activated sludge is a product of the digester, and is produced by the plant itself, and constantly re-used.

The mechanical aerator adds 14 pounds of oxygen an hour to the water. The liquid which has been emptied into the aerating tank from the first settling tanks remains in this tank for 14 hours.

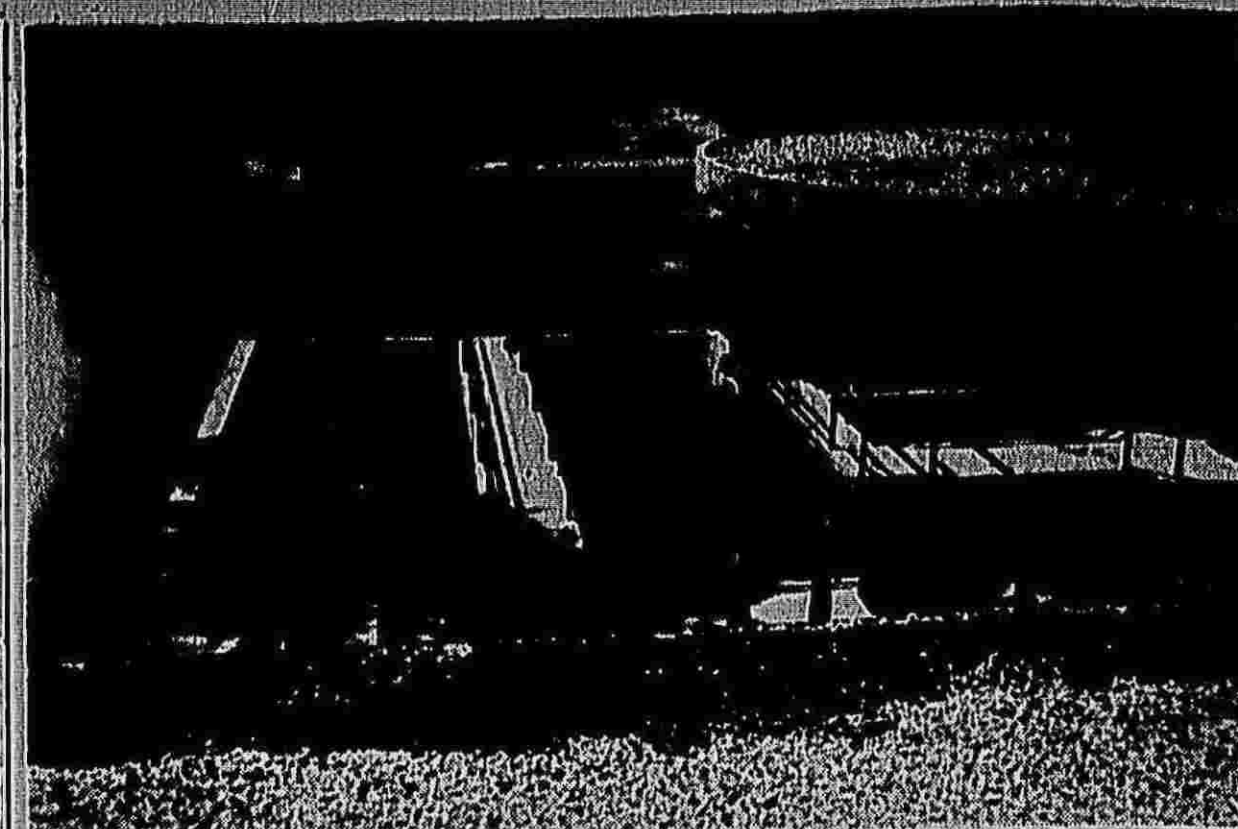

From the aerating tank, the liquid is drained off into two more settling tanks, here it remains for about an hour, while the "sludge flock" settles. This is the bacteria, which will be re-used. The flock is pumped out and returned to the first tanks. The liquid is drained off into the tank, where the chlorine will be added. At this point, it appears as clear and inoffensive as a mountain stream. The chlorine tank has a set of baffles, with the water flowing over one, under the next. The amount of chlorine added is mechanically controlled. The water then flows through a measuring device which records the flow through the plant and controls the amount of chlorine added, then into Sequoit Creek.

The solids, which were removed from the first settling tank, go into the digester. The digester is a large round building, with a floating roof. The roof is raised, or lowered, according to the amount of solids within the structure, helping to maintain an ideal temperature for the bacteria to work and destroy the solids. The activity of the bacteria produces methane gas, which is piped off and burned to heat the mixture to a carefully controlled temperature. The excess gas is piped to the yard of the plant and burned as it emerges from an open standpipe. You will see the pipe, with a constant flame, as you enter the yard.

In the digester the solids are reduced in bulk and all pollutionable material removed. What is left is stable, inoffensive material. Antioch's plant has been in operation since February. It has not yet been necessary to remove any material from the digester. Tod Maplethorpe estimates that some may have to be removed by September of this year. It will then be dumped into dry-

Have Fun—& Stay Safe

"Be carefree but not careless," boating enthusiasts were advised today by Chief Norman Litz, Water Safety chairman of the Red Cross chapter here.

He offered the following safety tips to promote safe recreation and prevent "wreck creation."

1. Be sure everyone in boat knows how to swim.

2. Don't overcrowd. Keep passengers in boat down to a safe number.

3. Don't overpower boat; your dealer can tell you what size motor is safe.

4. Equip boat with safety items, such as anchor, oars, boat hook, extra line, fire extinguisher, tool kit, first aid kit, and jacket or life preserver for each passenger. Running lights are a must if you plan to be on the water at night.

5. Don't smoke while fueling.

6. Check forecast before going out in boat, and if you plan to go far it is a good idea to take along a small transistor radio to keep you posted on the weather.

7. If your boat capsizes or swamps, don't swim away from it. Hang on until help comes. It usually will float.

8. Enroll in any of the excellent boat-handling classes available through the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, the U. S. Power Squadron, or your American Red Cross Chapter.

Chief Litz said persons interested in boating safety may call the Red Cross Chapter House at ON 2-4044 for information on free motion pictures — "People Afloat"

Lake Co. Purchase Of Savings Bonds

Lake County residents purchased a total of $482,746 in series E and H United States savings bonds in June, according to Phillip Spodel, Lake Forest, and John Meale, North Chicago, general county co-chairmen of the savings bonds committee. Sales in the state of Illinois were $27,311,409, exceeding last June by 4.6%, according to Arnold J. Raven, state director of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division. In every month of 1963 purchases have been greater than those of the corresponding month last year in both Cook county and in the state of Illinois. 66.9% of the state's annual quota, which is $341,200,000, has been reached in the first half of this year. In June sales represented 7.8 per cent of the national total which was $347,000,000.

It's a strange trend in transportation—every year there are more station wagons and fewer sedans. Bill Vaughan, Bell Syndicate.

Bids for several items were awarded: bus tires, Antioch Firestone at $66.28 each; copl, Antioch Lumber & Coal Co., at $14.85 per ton; and fuel oil, Teves Co. of Waukegan, 9.15c per gallon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth

Scribner were denied permission to transfer their child from the Oakland building to the Antioch building. The Board instructed Mr. Whitacre to advertise for a part-time, registered nurse. Permission was given to the Little League to use the cafeteria on August 10, for a pancake dinner. The tuition fee for out of the district pupils was set at $430 per year.

Visitors to the 1963 Illinois State Fair will see that the classical flying carpet has been replaced by a flying corset when a "rocketeer" demonstrates a new way of getting over obstacles.

The rocketeer can shoot straight up to a height of 60 feet level off for an 800-foot flight and come down for a precision landing. The Buck Rogers style propulsion device used by the rocketeer was developed by the Army.

CHARLES (TOD) MAPLETHORPE in the modern laboratory at the sewerage plant.

A chap was complaining to a friend on the commuter train. "My wife wants to do everything Jackie Kennedy does. She wears her hair the same way. She wants Oleg Cassini frocks. And we haven't missed mass in 40 weeks!"

Sighed the friend, "What's wrong with that, not missing mass?" Moaned the husband, "But we're JEWISH!"

RUSSIAN HOUSE
A typical Russian single-family dwelling will be displayed at the 1963 Illinois State Fair. The 16 x 24 foot frame house is being built inside the Exposition Building on the fairgrounds. Plans for the unit originally appeared in a 1959 issue of the Soviet Union Journal in Moscow. The house will have two rooms plus a bathroom. The unit being built by a Peoria firm would sell for $22,000 in Russia. In this country it would cost $1,500.
